Khrush Hints He Plans New Summit Call

Says Parley Before
American Election
Seems Impossible

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Friday it seems "impossible to envisage" a new summit conference in advance of U.S. presidential elections in November. But he hinted he might ask for one thereafter.

The Soviet leader told British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in a letter he would like to discuss "basic issues of our time," such as divided Germany and Berlin, disarmament, a nuclear weapons ban and other cold war issues. He added he sees little prospects for a summit meeting before the American elections.

"If the Soviet government does not meet with understanding later, and if obstacles to agreement on these questions are put up, we shall conclude a peace treaty with the (Communist East) German Democratic Republic," he said.

Reply To Macmillan Letter

The repetition of this warning—threatening to give the East German Communists full authority over access to isolated West Berlin—was made in reply to a July 19 Macmillan letter. Macmillan had expressed concern over Soviet policy and even raised the specter of an accident which could touch off nuclear war.

Khrushchev's statement that a summit meeting before November seemed impossible appeared to conflict with the latest Soviet policy gesture calling for a meeting of the heads of government of all 82 members of the United Nations when the world organization opens its session in September. The idea has been received with extreme coolness in the United States.

Khrushchev repeated other warnings, too, in characteristically blunt terms. Among these was a renewed threat to take "necessary" measures against the territory of any nation serving as a base for U.S. intelligence aviation.

Raps British RB47 Stand

Khrushchev chided Macmillan for supporting the United States in the recent U.N. Security Council debate over an American RB47 plane downed by the Soviet Union July 1. The United States said it had been downed over international waters.

Khrushchev also expressed annoyance with British support of the American contention that Khrushchev wrecked the mid-May summit meeting in Paris before it could get started.

"You have taken the same position," Khrushchev wrote, "as the aggressive forces in the United States. It is hostile to us. It is directed against us and we must draw the appropriate conclusions."

Ailing Castro Goes Fishing

HAVANA (AP) — Havana radio station VOZ said ailing Prime Minister Fidel Castro went fishing Friday with his younger brother, Raul Castro, armed forces minister.

The station said Castro was seen by many people who were quoted as saying he appeared to be in "magnificent health."

The Prime Minister's health has caused great speculation since it was reported he was stricken with a lung infection July 9. He has since been said to be convalescing.

Juan Orta, Castro's private secretary, termed ridiculous a Washington report that the Prime Minister is suffering from tuberculosis.

Orta said: "Fidel Castro is in perfect health and is resting quietly and fishing."

Kennedy Seeks To Unite Demo Forces In N. Y.

ARRAIGNED — Mrs. Leona Covacevich, 21, who lost her newly-won Miss U. S. A. title in 1956 because she admitted being a married woman, is shown yesterday while awaiting arraignment in a Los Angeles municipal court. She pleaded innocent to a charge of mistreating one of her sons and was released on $500 bail. She told newsmen she was merely spanking the boy but that her mother-in-law reported her to police. She is accused of striking her 5-year-old son, David, with a belt. (AP Photofax)

Demo Reaction To Kefauver's Victory Mixed

By The Associated Press

The lopsided renomination of liberal-minded Sen. Estes Kefauver in the Tennessee Democratic primary was described variously Friday as the start of a new liberal Southern movement and as of no general significance.

Comment followed regional lines for the most part. But there was little indication the victory reflected a trend toward acceptance of desegregation in the South.

Significantly, several Deep South governors and Democratic party leaders either declined comment or were unavailable for comment.

Robert Humphreys, chairman of the Kentucky Democratic State Council Executive Committee, said the tall Tennesseean's win over Judge Andrew T. Taylor, a segregationist, "indicates a new liberality in the South and especially do I think it indicates the South will go along with the ticket."

However, Gov. Bert Combs of Kentucky found little significance in Kefauver's renomination for a third term. "It is more of a tribute to Kefauver's taking a stand on the side of the so-called little man," he said.

Li. Gov. Paul Johnson of Mississippi said flatly that Tennessee has not been a trend-indicator state for the past 100 years.

Kefauver himself said the vote "makes it clear that detractors of the South, who tried to say that we are a backward people, have been proven wrong. The South will continue to move forward with the mainstream of American civilization."

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), assistant majority leader of the Senate, said Kefauver's renomination "improves the prospects for our presidential ticket in November."

Chief Judge Robert E. Quinn wrote the appeals court opinion upholding the conviction. Judges George W. Latimer and Homer Ferguson concurred.

Rhodes' activities came to light when he testified at the 1957 trial of Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, the Soviet "master spy" who is now serving 30 years in prison for espionage.

Rhodes, an Army meteorological technician, testified that he gave the Russians military and other secrets while serving in Moscow.

He said the Russians paid him rubles equivalent to $2,500 to $3,000.

A former Soviet agent, Reino Hayhanen, testified that he was told by Abel to contact Rhodes as "agent Quebec" in 1955 after the "Army sergeant had returned to the United States."

The Ft. McNair Court martial followed the Abel trial. The prosecution contended that the Russians forced the lanky, gray-haired sergeant into espionage by threatening to expose his illicit affair with a Russian woman.

Senator Talks With Leaders Of Two Factions

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy flew into vote-heavy New York Friday for top-level conferences aimed at uniting the party behind his effort to capture the state's vital 45 electoral votes this fall.

"I'm sure we're going to get along fine," the Massachusetts senator said prior to his talks with both regular and insurgent leaders of the Democratic organization in New York. "Our object is to win the election in November."

Wedge in between Kennedy's conferences with party leaders were a speech at the Overseas Press Club before editors and publishers of foreign-language newspapers in the United States and a private, half-hour talk with Felix von Eckhardt, who has been in the United States for several weeks as a personal representative of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer for a first-hand survey of America's political atmosphere.

Cool To Summit Meetings

In talks with newsmen during his busy day in New York, Kennedy again touched on Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's latest proposals for a summit conference.

Generally, the Democratic candidate commented, "I'm not optimistic about summit meetings." Kennedy said there first should be some success made on the ambassadorial or foreign ministers' levels in preparation for a meeting of heads of state.

On the intraparty political front, Kennedy talked with Tammany leader Carmine G. DeSapio and Democratic State Chairman Michael H. Prendergast.

The Democratic standard-bearer also talked by telephone with Herbert H. Lehman, former governor and U.S. senator, at the latter's vacation spot at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Lehman "Insurgent" Leader

Lehman is one of the leaders of the so-called insurgent group within the Democratic state organization which has been at odds with DeSapio and Prendergast.

The Democratic presidential candidate told newsmen he had discussed party strategy with Lehman and that Lehman told him the situation in New York "is encouraging."

With these leaders Kennedy discussed plans for an all-out drive to get a record registration of New York voters this year.

Kennedy's campaign machine has been concentrating its efforts throughout the nation on getting voters to register.

The Democratic candidate's formal campaign is scheduled to get under way early next month with trips to Alaska and Hawaii. His first major campaign speech with the United States is scheduled for Sept. 5 in Detroit.

Kefauver himself said the vote "makes it clear that detractors of the South, who tried to say that we are a backward people, have been proven wrong. The South will continue to move forward with the mainstream of American civilization."

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), assistant majority leader of the Senate, said Kefauver's renomination "improves the prospects for our presidential ticket in November."

Chief Judge Robert E. Quinn wrote the appeals court opinion upholding the conviction. Judges George W. Latimer and Homer Ferguson concurred.

Rhodes' activities came to light when he testified at the 1957 trial of Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, the Soviet "master spy" who is now serving 30 years in prison for espionage.

Missing Pair Likely Behind Iron Curtain

Pentagon Reports
One Of Men Taking
Mental Treatments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Friday it "must be assumed that there is a likelihood" that two missing employees of a top secret intelligence agency "have gone behind the Iron Curtain."

The Pentagon, breaking several days' silence on the whereabouts of Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin, confirmed earlier reports that the two employees of the National Security Agency had flown to Mexico City, thence to Cuba. They had informed the agency that they planned to take a vacation trip to the western United States.

The Defense Department said that Mitchell "was under psychiatric treatment immediately prior to the time he left" for Mexico on June 24.

Duo Visited Mexico, Cuba

The department also disclosed that Mitchell and Martin had visited Mexico and Cuba last December. This trip came to light only after intelligence officers began an investigation last month when the two failed to return for duty at the expiration of their scheduled vacation.

Neither the written statement nor the Defense Department's official spokesman cast any further light on the department's conclusion that, "As a result of the investigation so far it must be assumed that there is a likelihood that they have gone behind the Iron Curtain."

Had No Prejudicial Info

The Pentagon's statement said that the investigation "indicates that information in their possession if revealed could in no way be prejudicial to the security of the United States' communications."

The Pentagon said further that neither of the two had "access to classified information about American weapons or defense plans."

Mitchell and Martin were mathematicians. The Pentagon's announcement Friday said they were "employed in limited areas of communications statistical work" at the security agency.

Ex-Miss U.S.A. Pleads Innocent To Abusing Son

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Leona Gage, who once won the Miss U.S.A. title by keeping quiet about a husband and two children, Friday pleaded innocent to a charge of mistreating her son.

David Ennis, 5, whom she is accused of striking with a belt, played happily at home blowing bubbles while his mother went to court, she said.

Her past caught up with her again Thursday when newsmen learned that the Leona Covacevich, 21, being booked on charges of "endangering a child's life" was the same tall, brunette beauty who made headlines in 1957.

At that time Miss Gage, of Maryland, held the Miss Universe pageant's Miss U.S.A. title for just 24 hours. Then her marriage became known.

She has three children, two sons by her first husband, Air Force Sgt. Gene Ennis, and a son by her present husband, Nicholas Covacevich, a dancer.

She asked a jury trial, set for Sept. 29, and obtained a court-appointed attorney, saying she couldn't afford to hire one.

Bolivian Ex-Chief Returns To Helm

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Victor Paz Estenssoro, 53-year-old leader of the ruling National Revolutionary Movement, will be sworn in Saturday for the second time as Bolivia's president.

Paz Estenssoro, who won recent elections by an overwhelming margin, previously was president from 1952 to 1956. He succeeds Hernan Siles, one of his principal lieutenants who was elected to the job four years ago.

The Bolivian constitution bars a president from succeeding himself. Paz Estenssoro spent most of his four years between terms as ambassador to London. It has been reported that Siles now will be named to an ambassador's post.

Figures In Congo Crisis

Dr. Ralph Bunche (foreground), special emissary of the United Nations, walks with Katanga province Premier Moise Tshombe after their meeting at Tshombe's residence in Elisabethville Thursday. Bunche was in the capital city of the secessionist Congo province to try to pave the way for peaceable entry of U.N. troops. However, faced with a threat of bloodshed, U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld yesterday called off plans to send troops into Katanga and called an urgent meeting of the Security Council on the turbulent Congo situation for Sunday night in New York.

Sybert Ruling Asked In Prison Strike Dispute

JESSUP, Md. (AP) — The attorney general will be asked to settle a dispute which resulted in a strike of prisoners at the House of Correction.

State prison officials said Friday they had agreed to ask attorney general to rule whether the strikers, who are employed on jobs inside the institution, may earn reduced-sentence benefits now given inmates to work outside the prison.

The strikers, who began their protest Thursday, agreed Friday to process all the laundry on hand from the University Hospital in Baltimore and officials hope the entire matter can be settled by Monday.

James W. Curran, superintendent of prisons, said that if Attorney General C. Ferdinand Sybert approves, he will recommend that the Board of Corrections give the strikers the opportunity to earn the additional time off their sentences.

The inmates objected to the policy that reduces time served for prisoners working outside the institution. The strikers, who are employed inside, weren't eligible for the benefit.

Earlier, the men refused to accept the warden's proposal that they return to work until a solution could be reached. Steiner said they wanted something "more concrete" than a promise to take up the situation with authorities.

He agreed to talk to spokesmen. Others present at the parley were James W. Curran, state superintendent of prisons, and Joseph B. Deutsch, assistant warden.

The policy of giving time off for work outside the prison was established in July by the Board of Correction. The plan was based on an old law that authorizes extra time off for convicts "employed upon public work." Such prisoners were to get five days off for every month spent working outside the prison.

About 700 prisoners would benefit by the policy.

Rural Ohio Kinfolk Of Nixon Militant Demos But They're Voting For Him

Editor's Note: — Most people recall Vice President Nixon's father was a native of the hill country in southeastern Ohio. The Cincinnati Enquirer, sent reporter Margaret Josten to learn more about his kinfolk in this rural area. The Enquirer has made her story available to The Associated Press.

By MARGARET JOSTEN
Cincinnati Enquirer Reporter
MCARTHUR, Ohio (AP) — The Democratic kinfolk of Vice President Richard M. Nixon live on a hilltop farm near here with two horses, two cows and an assortment of chickens.

But the Republican standard-bearer need not fear opposition from these militant, blood-and-thunder relatives who fiercely defend Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

Roy Benson Nixon, his wife and son say they will go to the polls in November and cast their first votes for a Republican presidential candidate. "Not because Richard is our relative," they say, "but because we think he's the best."

Frank Nixon, late father of Vice President Nixon, was born in 1878 and raised a few miles south of this county seat in southeastern Ohio in what is known as the Ebenezer community.

He grew up in a log house, now covered with gray shingles. The front yard is overrun with weeds.

A short walk down the road from the house is the small, white clapboard church Frank Nixon attended as a boy. An iron bell in the belfry of Ebenezer Methodist church still summons worshippers to Sunday services, funerals and weddings.

Entry Called Off For Fear Of Bloodshed

Dag Calls Council
Meeting Sunday
On Congo Crisis

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Faced with a threat of bloodshed, the United Nations Friday suddenly called off plans to send U.N. troops into secessionist province of Katanga.

U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld made the hard decision and called an urgent meeting of the Security Council on the turbulent Congo situation. The Council will meet at 8 p.m. Sunday in New York.

Hammarskjöld was flying back to New York Friday night aboard a special U.N. plane to attend the Council session.

The cancellation of the plan to move a U.N. force into Katanga Saturday came in a day of swiftly moving developments.

A 20-man U.N. advance party was barred from leaving its plane in Elisabethville, the Katanga capital. The group had been scheduled to prepare the way for U.N. troops to move in at dawn Saturday.

Instead the U.N. party returned here, accompanied by Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche, who had rushed to Elisabethville Wednesday to confer with leaders of the province on the withdrawal of Belgian troops and their replacement by a U.N. force.

Bunche Meets With Dag

On his return here, Bunche went immediately into a conference with Hammarskjöld. The announcement that U.N. troops would not be dispatched to Katanga came two hours later.

U.N. officials said that during his stay in Elisabethville Bunche had become convinced that any U.N. entry into Katanga could not be accomplished without bloodshed.

These officials said the difficult problem confronting Hammarskjöld was that he had not the right to risk the lives of soldiers offered by their countries to the U.N. Congo force for police action only.

The Katanga government also had set up a simple but effective front-line defense against arrivals of U.N. troops: a ready plan to blockade the airfield at Elisabethville with vehicles, oil drums and other gear to prevent plane landings. Gunfire also was threatened against unauthorized plane landings.

Soviet Demands Belgian Pullout

(The Soviet Union called again for withdrawal of all Belgian troops from the Congo, including Katanga. It said if this is not done in the shortest possible time, the present U.N. Congo command should be removed. If still not done, it added, troops from other countries should be sent in.)

Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba left Rabat, Morocco, during the night for Conakry, Guinea, on his round-about journey home from the United States and Canada. Even before the word came that U.N. troops would not be sent to Katanga as scheduled, Lumumba had sent off a protest to Hammarskjöld over Bunche's meetings with Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga. Lumumba maintained Tshombe does not represent the central government and has no right to deal directly with the U.N.

Tshombe was reported asleep in his Elisabethville residence when word was received there of the U.N. decision to keep away. His housekeeper said he heard the news with a big smile and then went back to sleep.

Swedish troops had been alerted to leave the Leopoldville airport at 2 a.m. Saturday and would have reached Elisabethville about dawn.

Fanani Government Approved By Big Vote

ROME (UPI) — Premier Amintore Fanfani Friday won approval for his new government by the unprecedented margin of almost two to one.

The vote, only a month after Communist-led riots threatened the nation with political chaos, was a solid defeat for the Reds and the neo-Fascists.

In completing parliamentary approval of the pro-Western Fanfani government, the chamber of deputies gave him 310 votes, with 156 against and 96 abstentions.

Naval Authority Dies

USSR Demands U. N. Decisions Be Carried Out

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government called Friday for removal of the U.N. Congo command unless all Belgian troops are pulled out of the Congo—including Katanga Province. It termed "very alarming the behavior of the U.N. forces command."

The Soviets also declared that if present U.N. forces in the Congo do not bring about withdrawal of Belgian troops, soldiers should be sent to the Congo from "countries which would be ready to contribute to the implementation of this just act."

The Soviet government declaration, distributed by the official news agency Tass, said the situation in the Congo is "absolutely intolerable." It called Belgian soldiers in the Congo "interventionist troops" and referred again to "aggression" it said had been launched against the Congo.

The "token withdrawal of an insignificant part of the interventionist troops, now under way, is a maneuver calculated to soothe and mislead public opinion," the statement said. It also declared the authority of the U.N. is being undermined.

Declaring the Soviet Union is for strict and effective measures to ensure the early fulfillment of Security Council decisions on the Congo, Tass said the Soviet Union proposed: "to evacuate in the shortest possible time all the Belgian troops from the territory of the Republic of the Congo, not hesitating to use any means to bring this about."

"If the present command of the troops continues refusing to abide by the Security Council decisions, which make it binding on this command to act only in agreement with the government of the Republic of the Congo and to render it the necessary military support, this command should be removed and a new one appointed."

Five Maryland Demo Electors Selected

BALTIMORE (AP)—Five of the nine electors who will formally cast Maryland's presidential votes if the Democrats win in November were named Friday by State Party Chairman Thomas B. Finan.

They are State Senate President George W. Della, Del. Charles Huyett of Hagerstown, Robert S. Knatz Jr. of Reisterstown, George Richard Long of Salisbury and James H. (Jack) Pollack of Baltimore.

The electors were selected, Finan said, on the basis of recommendations by the congressmen in their respective districts.

The state party convention voted last June to let the state chairman appoint the electors, who will meet in Annapolis to perform their duties after the election.

Finan said the other four Democratic electors will be named within a few days.

Umbaugh Plans To Build 100,000 Of His Autogyros

WASHINGTON (AP)—Raymond E. Umbaugh said Friday he has raised his sights and plans to build 100,000—not 10,000—modernized autogyros at the Fairchild Aircraft Plant in Hagerstown, Md.

The 39-year-old founder of Umbaugh Agricultural Chemical Co., which has fertilizer plants throughout the mid-south and mid-west, forecast that he might be able to hire back the 4,000 persons that have been dropped from Fairchild payrolls since military cutbacks reduced Fairchild's workload sharply.

Umbaugh, of Ocala, Fla., said the Umbaugh-18 is performing "beyond expectations" in its current series of flight tests and in its program for certification by the Federal Aviation Agency.

Fairchild has built five of the two-place autogyros for the testing program.

Umbaugh told a reporter that the plane will go into production next month, with first deliveries to customers in October or November.

He said it would take about five months to reach the planned production level of 1,000 a month.

The Umbaugh-18, which has two seats in tandem, is an airplane mounting a 180-horsepower Lycoming engine and propeller in the rear, for pusher type operation.

A larger rotor blade overhead is started by power, but pin-wheels freely as soon as the pusher-type propeller provides forward motion. In this respect it differs from the original autogyros of 20 or 30 years ago, which had no power operated rotor, and thus received lift from its rotor only while the craft was in motion.

Umbaugh said engines and rotor blades have been improved so much in the past two decades that the autogyro principle has at long last become of practical importance.

He said that because of its simplicity, the autogyro is much more reliable and less expensive than the helicopter.

Five Perish In W. Va. Fire

WEST UNION, W. Va. (UPI)—A raging fire leveled a one-story frame house 13 miles north of here Friday, killing four small children and a teenager and injuring two other persons.

Killed in the fire at Shirley, Tyler County, were Marybelle Wadsworth, 19, West Union; Janet Dotson, 4, and her sister Billie, 1, West Union; Walter Ferrebee, 9, and his sister Dorma, 8, of Shirley.

The mothers of the children, Mrs. Daisy Dotson and Mrs. Juanita Ferrebee, were painfully burned but were reported in fair condition at a New Martinsville hospital.

The Dotsons and the Wadsworth girl were visiting the Ferrebees and all seven were apparently sleeping in the same room when the fire broke out.

Mrs. Dotson said she awoke about 3:30 a.m. e.s.t. and felt heat and smelled smoke.

Mrs. Dotson said she could see that the house was afire and climbed out a window to seek help.

"All the time I was yelling for help I could hear the children screaming inside," said Mrs. Dotson. She said the heat was too intense for her to return for the others.

Authorities said the fire apparently started from some defective wiring. A two-story house next door, which was unoccupied, also burned.

Citizens Stand Off Bulldozer

BALTIMORE (AP)—Residents of a dead-end street in Lansdowne manned their makeshift street ramparts Friday, and stood off the first frontal assault of a bulldozer.

A contractor is trying to make a through street of Rambo Court, but the people who live there don't like the idea. They say traffic will endanger the lives of their children.

The defenders mobilized for battle on Thursday by blocking the street with garbage cans and furniture. They planned to stand by the barricade when necessary.

The big bulldozer, armed with a front-end loader, charged for the curb line slated for leveling. But the barricade stood. Later police arrived. Just when it looked as if the battle would be joined, someone called the Baltimore County Bureau of Land Development.

The police left, and so did the bulldozer. The fight was over—at least for the day.

State Seizes Struck Kansas City Utility

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The state seized strike-bound Kansas City Power & Light Co. Friday after failure of negotiations between the utility and an electrical workers union.

Official papers carrying out the ultimatum of Gov. James T. Blair were served on officials of the firm and Local No. 1464.

The governor acted under a state law which provides for technical seizure of a utility if a strike endangers public welfare.

The union local was one of three which went on strike against the firm three weeks ago. Members of the other two approved new contracts, but have respected the picket lines of Local 1464, composed of outside production workers.

Supervisory employees have been operating company facilities.

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Eighty-one young doctors at the Rangoon General Hospital struck Friday for higher pay.

Rees Attorneys Ask To Inspect U.S. Evidence

BALTIMORE (AP)—Attorneys for Melvin Davis Rees Jr., accused of the kidnap-murder of a Virginia woman and her daughter, Friday asked the federal court for permission to inspect government evidence.

In motions filed with the court, the lawyers asked for a list of witnesses, a bill of particulars and the right to inspect various books, papers and other articles connected with the case.

The 31-year-old Rees, a Hyattsville musician, is being held in city jail on a two-count indictment charging he kidnaped Mrs. Carroll Jackson of Apple Grove, Va., for sexual gratification and then killed her and a 5-year-old daughter, Susan Anna.

Mrs. Jackson, the daughter, her husband and an infant daughter disappeared while driving to their home in January, 1959. The bodies of Jackson and the baby were found near Fredericksburg, Va., the mother and other child were found in a crude grave near Gambrills, Md. about two weeks later.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP)—Contracts for construction in Maryland last June amounted to $7,372,000, a decline of 6 per cent over the same period a year ago. The F. W. Dodge Corp., in its regular report from New York, said the Maryland total for the first six months of the year was $334,078,000, off 9 per cent from the same period last year.

MIDDLETOWN, Md. (AP)—Lionel Gene May, 23, of Middletown, missed a curve and drove his expensive sports car through the front door of a home near U.S. 40-A early Friday. Both May and Mrs. Paul E. Shank, who was asleep on a sofa in the living room of the house, escaped injury—but the car and the house were heavily damaged.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Roland F. Ihle, wanted in California on child theft and other charges, was being held by police here pending his removal to the West Coast. Ihle was arrested Thursday night and waived extradition.

Rural Ohio

The elder Nixon straightens up and approaches his visitors slowly. He is 79 years old, going on 80. But his eyes beneath a peaked straw hat are young, alert, full of pride.

"I'd be the vice president's second cousin because I'm a full first cousin to his father," announces the old man as he leads the way into the house.

Not until everybody is seated in rocking chairs around an old-fashioned coal stove does talk start about the political interests of the Vinton County Nixons.

It comes from Mrs. Nixon, wife of Roy. She is hot and tired after a day in the kitchen canning quart jars of pickles and green beans.

"We're Democrats," she announces, mopping perspiration from her forehead with the end of an apron. "But we're certainly going to vote for Richard. It seems to me he's fitted for the job."

Roy Nixon carries in the pocket of his blue denim a long list showing family marriages, births and deaths.

It shows that George Nixon III fought with the Union in the Civil War and died of wounds he received in the Battle of Gettysburg. He left nine children, including Samuel Brady Nixon, father of Frank, and Hiram Nixon, father of Roy.

Samuel Brady Nixon was a mail carrier, farmer, school teacher and carpenter. His children were Wadsworth, Frank, Ernest, Hugh, Carrie and Irene.

Frank worked as a hand on Vinton farms as a young man. At one point he and his cousin, Roy, went to Columbus, (Ohio) where they became street car conductors.

Frank later moved to Whittier, Calif., where he met and married Hannah Milhous.

Roy returned to Vinton County.

Folks along the main stem of this town have had a lot to talk about since Richard Milhous Nixon first burst into national prominence.

Roy met his famous cousin only once. That was when some Vinton County politicians decided it would be a good idea to take him to Columbus, where the vice president was filling a speaking engagement.

"Some body busted up on the stage draggin' me," relates Roy. "And you know what Richard said?"

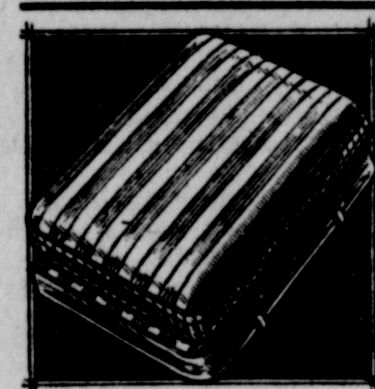

"He said, 'Why I'd knowed him by his nose. It's a family characteristic.'"

Girls Entering College To Be Entertained Aug. 28

Tri-State area members of the National Pan-Hellenic Sororities will hold a buffet dinner to entertain girls from the area who are entering college this fall.

The dinner is to be held August 28 at the Upper Potomac Shrine Club, known as the Old Stone House, at Burlington, W. Va., beginning at 5 p.m. (EDT).

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I'm a nice, decent girl 14 years of age. Last evening my friend and I were walking around town and a car drove up alongside us. It was a couple of fellows from school. We knew them slightly, but had never been out with them. Both boys are good-looking, popular and well thought of. Any girl would consider herself lucky to have a date with either of them.

We got into the car and rode around a while. Then we parked in an out-of-the-way place and started to talk. My fellow, Barry, kissed me several times and I guess you might say we necked for about an hour and a half.

When Barry took me home he just let me out of the car. He didn't even walk me to the door. I feel cheap and now I'm afraid he doesn't respect me and that he'll never ask me for a real date. I could kick myself for the way I acted.

How can I get across to Barry that I'm really a nice girl? — HATE MYSELF

DEAR HATE YOURSELF: The best way to be respected is to behave yourself. TELLING a fellow you're decent and respectable won't do it — not when you permit yourself to be picked up and then wind up necking on a lonesome road.

This experience couldn't be a total loss if you learn from it. You've probably muddled the waters for keeps with Barry, but you'll have other opportunities to behave like a lady. Just make sure you do.

DEAR ANN: My wife's sister and her husband are both alcoholics. They live next door with their three children who are under eight years of age.

Every night they leave the kids alone while they go from one joint to another. The little ones often come to our house, tell us that daddy and mamma are gone and that they're hungry. We feed them and put them in our extra room for the night. Those kids have been left with measles and flu and if we didn't watch after them Lord knows what would happen.

We have three children of our own, but both my wife and I would be happy to take these kids if we could get legal custody. Please tell us how to go about it. — D. F.

DEAR D. F.: The first step is to write a sworn statement against the parents listing the reasons you feel they are unfit parents. With this statement express desire for custody. Contact the juvenile authorities, present the statement and be prepared to stand by it in court, if necessary.

Perhaps if this pair loses the children it may shake them up enough so that they'll seek help for themselves.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What is there about a southern accent that simply slays the men? A woman moved up here from New Orleans and every guy in the office hangs around her desk because she "talks so darling."

We're getting fed up on her honey-dripping helplessness. Please suggest in your column that the Southerners learn to speak English. They sound uneducated. — RED WHITE AND BLUE YANKIES

DEAR RED WHITE AND BLUE: You sound green to me — with envy, that is. Men (especially northern) love a southern accent because it's soft and feminine. Personally, I like it.

DEAR ANN: What can be done about people who crane their necks and sit too close on trains and buses because they want to look at the paper you are reading? — SQUASHED

DEAR SQUASHED: Don't be a meanie. Pull out a section of the paper and hand it over.

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Linda Goodman Given Award

The Allegany County Animal Welfare Society has selected Linda Goodman, 12 years old, of Lutesman Road, as the winner of the monthly "Unusual Act of Kindness to an Animal" award. Linda rescued a baby blue jay during the hail storm in June. Later when she put it out, it would hop around, but refused to leave. To keep it from being prey to cats, she has been keeping it in a cage. The bird will not eat unless hand fed parakeet seed.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Proverbs	18	30
Monday	Psalms	53	1-2
Tuesday	Proverbs	29	25-26
Wednesday	Luke	17	33
Thursday	John	14	1
Friday	John	15	7-8
Saturday	Ephesians	3	19-20

A desperate run... a frantic slide... the feel of the bag against your cleats... the belated tag of the shortstop's glove. Then a voice, clear, certain... final!

And though the cheers may be laced with hoots and screams of disapproval, you're safe. And nothing can change that fact!

Equally dramatic — and far more important — is the adventure that brings earnest men and women into the Church.

There is a point when we realize the inertia of half-believing. We plunge forward desperately, leaving behind yesterday's skepticism, seeking frankly the Truth that promises meaning and purpose for our life.

Then there's the thrilling moment — the dust of wordly confusion still all around us — when we know in our hearts we have found our faith. And always, above the strains of the organ, even above the clamor of a world unconvinced, there is a Voice, clear, certain... final — confirming our Faith.

Firemen Issue Warning On False Alarms

FROSTBURG — The Frostburg Fire Department answered its second false alarm to a number in the vicinity of South Bowers Street within the past year. Both alarms were called into city hall and non-existent numbers were given.

According to Mrs. Margaret Kidwell, assistant city clerk, who answered the phone yesterday, the voice was that of a youth and gave a number that did not exist. When the firemen arrived at the end of Bowers there was no one waiting and firemen apparently called out as a hoax.

Firemen have issued a warning that such calls can create a serious condition. First, if the culprit is apprehended the fine can be up to $500; second, all of the firemen are on a voluntary basis and leave their jobs and stop almost anything they are doing to go to the aid of a fellow citizen; and third, thousands of dollars of equipment is moved rapidly over the city streets and there is always the danger of physical damage. Whoever is turning the false alarm in, spokesman for the fire company said, is doing one of the most despicable things possible.

They have asked the cooperation of everyone that if they know of anyone turning in false alarms to report them immediately to the fire company for prosecution.

Experts estimate that retirement income should equal at least 50 per cent of the pre-retirement income.

Prosecutor Gets Answer From Attorney

The defense attorney for the Old Fields, W. Va., man accused of murdering a Virginia salesman has lashed back at the Hardy County prosecuting attorney, concerning the state's insistence on the recall of the grand jury of the June term of Circuit Court, and reluctance to call back the June petit jury for an immediate trial of the defendant.

If it was so important that the grand jury be recalled for a special session to take up the July 14 death of Eldridge Lee Ritter, 33, Stephens City, W. Va., why is it not just as important to call back the June petit jury. That was the main point made yesterday by State Sen. Ralph J. Bean, attorney for Wilson Kirk, 45, who was indicted by the grand jury on Tuesday for the death of Ritter.

Prosecuting Attorney Lewis S. Moorman asserted that Bean did not want the trial next week because he is scheduled to attend a political meeting.

Bean replied: "I offered to cancel all engagements next week so that the trial could be held."

He pointed out his client had entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned Wednesday in Hardy County Circuit Court, and asked that he be given an immediate trial.

Zirk stands under the accusation of a serious crime, Bean declared, and delaying his trial when he asked to be tried immediately to show his innocence is casting a dark shadow on his family.

At a conference Wednesday with Moorman, Judge H. Gus Munzing and Bean, the latter declared that the prosecuting attorney offered four objections to an immediate trial.

One was that the state needed more investigation. Bean said the state should have investigated the case fully before convening the grand jury.

Another was that Moorman had a vacation planned, a third that the deceased family was retaining an attorney to assist in the trial, but that lawyer said next week was not suitable, while the fourth was that it was too expensive on the county's court budget to call back the petit jury. The last argument, the senator said, is feeble considering the seriousness of the charge against Zirk.

New VA Law Is Passed On Disabilities

A new law providing for additional compensation to veterans with severe service-connected disabilities who have more than three children has been signed by President Eisenhower.

The prior law did not authorize payment for more than three children.

Sam Weston, in charge of the Veterans Administration office in Cumberland, said additional compensation will range from $12 monthly for each child after the first three where the veteran's service-connected disability is evaluated at 100 per cent, down to $6 monthly where the veteran's disability is evaluated at 50 per cent. Between the two extremes proportionate amounts will be payable for percentages of disability.

Where disability was due to peacetime service, Mr. Weston said, the rates would be 80 per cent of the amount payable for wartime disability.

Up until now, a veteran with a service-connected disability of 50 per cent or greater could get additional compensation payments for a wife, dependent parents and a child, up to a total of three children. The new law adds the above payments for additional children.

Veterans with less than 50 per cent of rated disability receive no additional compensation for a wife, parents or children.

The term "children" includes all sons and daughters, real or legally adopted, under age 18 and unmarried. Children who become incapable of self-support through mental or physical causes before reaching 18 will still be considered children under provisions of this law until they marry, according to the VA.

Mr. Weston said additional information may be obtained on the new law by contacting his office in Room 308 in the Post Office Building Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Carrying out the bridal party colors of yellow and mint green, the party decorations included sprinkling cans and streamers with miniature household items. A large wedding bell was suspended over the refreshment table, which was centered with a bride doll cake.

Approximately 16 guests attended.

Gus Brickner May Look For Coaching Job

Gus Brickner, the swimming "conqueror" of Deep Creek Lake and Youghiogheny Lake, arrived home Thursday from his ill-fated English Channel try—downhearted and announcing his retirement as a long-distance swimmer.

But the Charlevoix long-distance swimmer said he is looking forward to a career as a swimming coach when he was interviewed upon landing at Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

Brickner failed in his English Channel attempt on Tuesday, falling just one-half mile short of his Calais, France, to Dover, England, swim.

The "human polar bear," as he is known in this tri-state section, was greeted by members of his family in a wet-eyed reunion.

The tears were for disappointment at his failure to achieve a 30-year goal. The 47-year-old steelworker failed once before in his channel try, that was in 1957.

Then as a warmup for another channel attempt, in August 1958 Brickner swam from Green Glade Inlet to McHenry on Deep Creek Lake, a distance of 14 miles.

The following year, in August, he made his second channel warmup swim—that one a 16-mile haul over the waters of Youghiogheny Lake.

At home, Gus reaffirmed his statement from Europe in which he announced his retirement from long distance swimming.

"I've had 30 years of this long distance swimming and when you get as close as I did to my big goal and then fail, it's time to quit," Gus explained.

Same Place Two Hours

He said that he was only 400 yards from the English coast, but that the powerful North Sea current, rushing into the Channel at that time, stopped him.

"I was in the same place in the water for two hours because of that current and I don't even remember them pulling me into the boat when it was obviously hopeless," he added.

At this point he displayed a badly lacerated leg to demonstrate the Channel's roughness during the time he entered the boat.

He also showed the inside of his mouth, burned the color of raw beefsteak by the salt water. Gus hopes to get a job coaching swimming at one of the big pools in this district.

Sloan To Head Veterans Unit For State GOP

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland Republican leaders have been called to a meeting to lay plans for the November election campaign.

State Party Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart said the GOP executive committee will meet Tuesday afternoon.

Rinehart also announced the appointment of John W. Sloan, former state commander of the American Legion, as head of a veterans campaign committee "in an effort to move into high gear immediately in this important area of the campaign."

Headquarters sources also said the Maryland party already has invited Vice President Richard M. Nixon to visit the State in October in his campaign for the presidency.

"Vice President Nixon's career in the service and in public life offers proof positive of his understanding of the problems faced by veterans and their families," Rinehart said.

"I sincerely hope that the former servicemen of Maryland will study his record carefully before casting their votes on Nov. 8," Sloan, a native of Cumberland, is the grandson of David W. Sloan Sr., onetime chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit Court of Maryland.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—If you see Billy Wilder dancing a jig on Hollywood Boulevard, it figures. Billy has received word that his hilarious comedy "The Apartment" is the only American motion picture to be in the running at the Venice Film Festival starting Aug. 24. Will Billy be there? You can bet your sweet life he will—as will Jack Lemmon and Shirley MacLaine.

Shirley's as excited as a child because she's never been in Europe and she's buying a lot of new clothes. Jack says he'll interrupt the rehearsals on his play or anything else, to be in Venice when "Apartment" is shown.

Many people think this is the funniest comedy ever made. I know I laughed until I was practically unconscious.

John Wayne is going to have to do some tall hustling. After the three-day celebration of the world premiere of "The Alamo" in San Antonio starting Sept. 24, Duke takes off by plane for London.

He'll arrive just in time to don white tie and tails and attend the charity opening of "Alamo" for the Variety Tent. Guests of honor are Princess Margaret and Anthony Armstrong-Jones. With Duke will be Pilar and their daughter Aissa.

After the British affair, he attends the Stockholm and Copenhagen premieres, and then on to Tanganyika to film "The African Story" for Howard Hawks.

Diane Baker, who had the tears flowing in "Diary of Anne Frank" and who loved well but not wisely in "The Best of Everything," becomes the princess with the sense of humor in "Wizard of Bagdad." This costume satire is producer Sam Katzman's first for 20th Century Fox since moving over from Columbia. The male stars are Dick Shawn and Barry Corbin.

Getting back to Diane—she's very glad to be moving her dressing room at 20th. It's been a long time between pictures. The long actors' strike came along giving the ambitious young lady far too much time on her hands.

Bubbling over with news, Rosalind Russell telephoned to report she is back from Europe and with an account of her wonderful summer. Roz and Freddie Brissson and the Arthur Little (good to hear that Mrs. L., the former Harriet Natcher who was so ill, is much better) spent a month on the yacht of the William Coxworths.

"We sailed to Cannes, Corsica, stopped at Antibes and had dinner

Residents Notified Of Road Requirement

Residents along Stewart Road have been notified by Harry Skelly, county roads supervisor, of the requirements for having the roadway taken into the county system.

A 40-foot right of way with a 26-foot roadway is necessary. All poles must be 16 feet from the center line of the road. Drainage, grading and surfacing specifications were also listed. When the property owners have the work done the roadway will be included for approval in the county system.

Two Wills Are Admitted To Probate

Two wills were admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

The will of Joseph R. McKnight, city, who died July 4, names his daughter, Helen M. Becker, Silver Spring, as executrix and beneficiary.

The will of Horace G. Miller, city, who died July 27, names a daughter, Madeline V. Helms, Atlantic City, as executrix. She and a son of the deceased, David W. Miller, city, and a grandson, Harry Miller Lentz, are beneficiaries.

With Jack Warner, whose guests also included his daughter Barbara and Joy Orr—dinner with the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, and with the tin king Patino and his new wife, Freddie talked with Alec Guinness when we saw him in the play "Ross" in London. Freddie returns to New York next week, and I go back there in October where I'll make a TV spectacular before I start the movie "Five Finger Exercise," said Roz, who with all this feasting and fun is three pounds thinner.

I'm going to have to give Vic Orsatti a few tips on what's "news." In a long letter from Spain about his and Rory Calhoun's movie and TV plans in Madrid, way down toward the end of the page Vic says:

"Incidentally, Rory and Lita (Baron) are expecting another child." What does he mean "incidentally"? I'm so glad for Rory and Lita. They are wonderful parents and love their two youngsters, one of whom is my godchild, little Tami. According to Vic, both little Calhouns are now rattling off Spanish better than English.

Movie-wise—Rory is set to star in "Colossus of Rhodes," a biggie in color and Cinemascope for MGM. Also for Vic and Rory's own company, a TV series will be filmed called "Tangiers."

I was curious to find out what American motion pictures the Russians are seeing on the cultural exchange arranged by the State Department, which so far has brought to our theatres the Soviet produced "Cranes Are Flying" and "The Idiot." I was personally concerned that we might be sending these antagonists some overly realistic facts of American life such as "Blackboard Jungle," "Al Capone" or "Baby Doll."

However, according to Turner Shelton of the State Department the Communists have chosen ten, all representing entertainment without anything that could be construed by the Russians as against our American way of life. The ten are: "Caruso," "Roman Holiday," "Rhapsody," "Seventh Voyage of Sinbad," "Oklahoma," "Margie," "All About Eve," "Lili," "Old Man and the Sea," and "Man of a Thousand Faces."

Will Atom Or Sun Supply The Power?

Fading belief that the atom will be the world's future source of cheap power has been apparent for several years. A few experimental generating plants have materialized, but their high costs, and burdensome safety requirements, have prevented them becoming competitive with conventional power plants.

Scientists and utilities leaders are downgrading nuclear energy. Crawford H. Greenwalt, head of DuPont and a prime figure in the Manhattan Project which led to the atomic bomb, for example, seems to be looking instead toward the sun for the safe, cheap energy civilization seeks.

Pointing to the fact that fissionable materials upon which atomic energy depends are limited in supply, Greenwalt turns his attention to solar energy. "There is a real chain reaction in its output," he comments, "its source so placed as to defeat lethal radiation."

Attempts to extract cheap power from fissionable material have not been abandoned. Plans have just been disclosed for a 40,000-kilowatt atomic power plant in Peach Bottom, Pa., and one eight times that size is slated for Chooz, France, on the Franco-Belgium border.

The Peach Bottom plant is not expected to be economically competitive with conventional power plants, but by current engineering yardsticks, the French plant should be. At a time when new wealth in coal and oil are being discovered throughout the world, a major reason why the "Euratom" program to supply a million kilowatts of electricity to Europe by 1965 has bogged down, the atom age faces its biggest test.

The question appears to be whether the age of economic atomic power can mature before the age of solar power, free of radiation hazard, arrives.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Rights Of The Majority

Richard C. Lee, the Mayor of New Haven, who was undoubtedly elected to maintain law and order, to keep the streets clean and to prevent riots and mayhem, has come up with the brilliant idea that those who are unhappy about conditions in this unfriendly world, particularly minorities, should "sit-out." This man means that the minorities should sit out on the streets, blocking traffic, so that all would thus know that a demonstration is being held by any group that regards itself as a minority.

But what about the majority of decent, hard-working citizens who are attending to their own affairs? What about the grocer whose doorway is blocked by the sitters-out? What about the worker who is driving in a car to his or her place of work? What about the doctor or the ambulance or, for that matter, the funeral procession?

Apparently, the Mayor of New Haven is preaching total abstinence from law and order. It is a concept of non-resistance which Leo Tolstoy and later Gandhi advocated as a means of enforcing their views.

But non-resistance can be a means of destruction which needs to be dealt with a fire hose or some other means of safeguarding the peaceful majority against an obstreperous minority. Too much, these days, do the politicians, particularly of large, heterogeneous cities tend to ignore the rights of the law-abiding, the decent, the respectable, in the interest of a few exhibitionists who declare themselves to be a minority and therefore demand special privileges.

The right to petition for the redress of grievances is guaranteed in the Constitution which also guarantees a republican form of government and the latter cannot exist without majority rule. In a city like New York, for example, the politicians calculate their control of men in terms of minorities. What percentage will they get of the Negro vote or the Puerto Rican vote or the Jewish or Italian vote? It used to be that they concerned themselves with the German vote but the Germans switched from sauerkraut to Liberty Cabbage and have become so thoroughly assimilated that they are now part of the majority.

Thus the process of assimilation moves along. Minorities become part of the majority. The Negro is barred from assimilation by the distinction in color although more and more, on New York streets, one sees mixed black and white couples.

New Haven's Mayor was surely not concerned about his own city where these problems are not very intense. But imagine what would happen if anyone were fool enough to take his advice in New York and picked Fifth Avenue or Times Square as the place to experiment with a sit-out. Probably a few hundred persons would be killed to start with. How many would be squashed, it cannot be estimated. The Mayor apparently does not concern himself with the consequence of his ideas.

That is so true of so many bright young men who come up with ideas—sharp, smart concepts that sound so good when first spoken and that bring misery to so many people. It is like those older men and women, of all sorts of shapes and sizes who see youth dress in shorts and short-skirts and shirts sticking out of their trousers and who wear no neckties and no jackets. So they say, "Let's be young! Let's dress like the kids!" So they do that and disgrace the kids. One must have form and figure to wear shorts or short-skirts. One needs youth to wear a tieless shirt. It just does not become an older person. It looks wrong. It feels wrong. It gives the impression of carelessness. What is perfect on a girl with slender legs and tender hips is a horror on a woman whose gams resemble the legs of a baby elephant and whose figure seems to have been settled by age.

Enough! It is all part of the New Haven Mayor's idea—say it is right because it is, for the moment, popular. Say that anything is right. The other day I was listening to Beethoven's Ninth at Tanglewood and my eyes fell upon some men and women who were dressed as though they were on their way to a jazz festival. They looked so out of place. I could only think of them going to church in pajamas.

Time For Disenchantment To Set In

The Unsettling Ideas Of J.K. Galbraith

WASHINGTON

John Kenneth Galbraith is a tall, sardonic, witty Harvard professor of economics who alarms almost everybody.

He alarms other economics professors because he obstinately writes the English language, which is held to be grossly immoral in every proper economics department. He alarms liberals because he is not mushily humanitarian, in the fashionable left-wing way. But above all, he alarms conservatives.

Galbraith is becoming the new ogre of American businessmen, because he is thought to be a dangerous left-winger, and because he is well known to be one of Sen. John F. Kennedy's chief economic advisers. America's stately Galbraith-ized by a Kennedy victory, with not a single yacht, or quail shoot, or dividend left in the land—that is the grim vision which now haunts great numbers of prosperous persons.

If reading books were not becoming such an out-of-date pastime, the simplest remedies for these nightmares would be to read what Galbraith has written. Just for the jokes, it is well worth doing, as the following passage on the nature of vested interest may perhaps suggest:

"The nature of a vested interest has an engaging flexibility. . . . In ordinary intercourse it is an improper advantage enjoyed by a political minority to which the speaker does not himself belong. When the speaker enjoys it, it ceases to be a vested interest and becomes a hard-won reward. When a vested interest is enjoyed not by a minority but by a majority, it is a human right."

Maybe the jokes are the real source of conservative alarm about Galbraith. In modern America, we do not suffer with gladly. At any rate, if you take a careful look at his "Affluent Society" and his more recent "Liberal Hour," you will find a system of ideas that logically ought to enrage the left far more than it disturbs the right.

To be sure, the basic proposition of the "Affluent Society" is unsettling. America, says Galbraith, is now too rich and comfortable to regard constantly unceasing production of increasingly superfluous consumer goods as our main end and purpose. The time has come, Galbraith suggests, to think about buying more schoolrooms instead of more tailfins. And this of course requires much heavier investments in what he calls the "public sector."

This central idea, that it is needful to increase investment in the public sector, is the source of the conservative outcry against Galbraith. But if conservative persons will only read on, to discover how Galbraith proposes to increase public investment, they are likely to have more mixed reactions.

By Joseph Alsop

He is, to begin with, just about as anti-inflationary as George M. Humphrey. His reasoning is somewhat different. He says, for instance, that inflation corrupts good government, because government salaries never keep pace with an inflating currency.

But Galbraith and Humphrey stand four square together, nonetheless, on the subject of inflation. He also stands four square with Richard M. Nixon on the matter of the budget. Like Nixon in the 1958 recession, he accepts the need for an unbalanced budget in bad times. But he also insists on a strict balance in good times.

Again, Galbraith stands four square with Humphrey and Nixon—or perhaps one should say, very nearly four square—on the problem of the income tax. Some of his sharpest jokes are directed at the liberal delusion that all bills can be paid by raising the taxes of the rich. It just will not work, he warns.

If Galbraith had his way, the vast existing loopholes would certainly be closed. Personal and corporate tax rates might perhaps be raised toward the pre-Eisenhower levels. But there would still be yachts and quail shoots in plenty.

Meanwhile, Galbraith coolly proposes to pay the main part of the bill for new public investment with the tax which has been the cherished darling, the favorite lost cause of the National Association of Manufacturers since time immemorial. Extended sales taxes, in fact, are the expedient he proposes. And if this expedient bears hardly on the small remaining minority of the truly poor, he says that investment in the public sector must dry up these sad remaining areas untouched by American affluence.

There are other Galbraith ideas that the N. A. M., and big labor too, will like less well. Instead of the exhortation practiced by President Eisenhower, he favors positive though moderate government action to stop the wage-price spiral at its source, in the great administered-price industries. He also points out that the Federal Reserve Board's methods of slowing inflation have not been super-effective. All the same, the equation of Galbraith with Karl Marx seems a bit questionable.

Artificial Skin Tan Doesn't Prevent Sunburn

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

We have had many questions on Man-Tan, a new chemical tanning preparation. This product contains dihydroxyacetone, which darkens the skin within 6 hours and wears off gradually in the course of several days. We do not know the action of this drug, but so far no adverse effects have been reported.

If you try this product, use it on a forearm first because the color varies from person to person. Not everyone develops the attractive tan as pictured in the ads; some get a yellowish-sallow tint. In addition, the substance may discolor the hair.

This is only part of the story. An ordinary tan protects the skin from sunburn but this does not happen with a deep chemical tan. Sunbathers who do not realize this may burn severely.

Can a person sweat blood? No, but there is a basis for the expression. At times, colonies of red or orange bacteria live in the armpits on shafts of hair. These micro-organisms color the sweat and we can understand how it is mistaken for blood, especially when there is a massive infestation. In such instances the colored material is neither blood nor sweat.

Colored sweat is noted occasionally but it usually is yellow—and less often, green, blue, or black. It may fluoresce brightly in the dark. This secretion comes from the apocrine sweat glands, and is localized to certain areas of the body. If the condition is generalized in copper miners, for example, the regular sweat glands may exude green perspiration.

SWOLLEN EYELIDS
M. F. writes: Is surgery recommended for swollen eyelids?

REPLY
Only when fat accumulations are responsible for swelling of the lower lids. Surgery is no value when the lids are waterlogged.

BLUE BABY SURGERY
P. H. writes: Are blue babies who have been operated on successfully able to lead a normal life thereafter?

REPLY
In many instances, surgery overcomes but does not correct the defect, which means heart trouble still exists. But it is less serious than before surgery. These children should avoid a life of hard work, excitement and overexertion. When it is possible to correct the defect, there is no reason why a normal life cannot be lived.

THE ANTIBIOTIC HABIT
R. M. writes: I know a family that will use any leftover antibiotic they may have on hand when someone in the household develops symptoms similar to those for which the medicine was prescribed. I contend it is harmful to take the antibiotics indiscriminately. What is your view in the matter?

REPLY
Never give leftover medicines to another person, especially an antibiotic that was prescribed specifically for one type of infection. In addition, taking the medicine may mask a serious ailment temporarily and delay much needed treatment.

COD LIVER OIL
R. W. writes: Is cod liver oil allowed on a low cholesterol diet?

REPLY
Yes, but it is too expensive to be used in large amounts as an unsaturated oil to lower the blood cholesterol.

EDEMA WITH CIRRHOSIS
F. M. E. writes: Does the abdomen bloat with cirrhosis of the liver?

REPLY
Yes, but not until the disease has existed for some time. There are other causes of bloating so don't come to any rash conclusions until liver tests have been made.

MILK AND ARTHRITIS
J. E. T. writes: I'm a victim of arthritis and it seems to me ice cream and milk make it worse. Is there any reason why this should happen?

REPLY
Not for the usual types of arthritis.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Nixon Persuades Ike Not To Veto Increases In Budget For Defense

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note — While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — In the name of politics, Vice President Nixon has gently persuaded the President not to veto any reasonable increases Congress may vote in the defense budget at the coming special session. . . . Still smoldering over the Nixon-Rockefeller call for more military spending, Ike snorted petulantly that he would not support defense increases, but he grudgingly agreed not to oppose them.

The Pentagon's chief press agent, Assistant Secretary Murray Snyder, has ordered the generals and admirals to attribute the extra spending to "the changing situation." He doesn't want the Democrats to take credit. . . . Vice President Nixon has called in the military chiefs to give him a secret cram course on our defense needs. Commented one top general: "At least Nixon listens. We haven't been able to get Ike to listen to us for seven years."

In the skies over Texas, the Air Force has been re-enacting the dramatic downing of the U-2 spy plane inside Russia. U-2 pilots have tried to simulate the conditions that led to Francis Powers' capture. . . . Tentative conclusion: An abrupt maneuver caused Powers' engine to flame out at 70,000 feet, then he wore out the battery trying to start it as he spiraled down. This probably left him without enough juice to ignite the dynamite that was supposed to blow up the plane. . . . Powers recorded his observations on a secret tape which the Russians probably will play at his Moscow trial. . . .

Communist Base
The Joint Chiefs are deeply disturbed over the danger that Fidel Castro's younger brother Raul may turn Cuba into a Communist base. . . . The Air Force has spotted two dozen Soviet jet fighters, all late-model Mig's, in Cuba. It is also known that Russian pilots and technicians came up with them. . . . Cuba's trackless, almost impenetrable Sierra Maestra mountains could also hide secret missile launch sites. These could be supplied easily by submarines, using the island's many excellent harbors.

GOP political sleuths are preparing a dossier on the Tremont Savings and Loan Association in the Bronx. Its assets shot up miraculously from $3,500,000 to $20,500,000 almost overnight after Charles Buckley, Jr., was named president in 1955. . . . He happens to be the son of Congressman Charles Buckley, one of Sen. Jack Kennedy's lieutenants in New York.

Adlai Stevenson has told friends flatly he will not serve as United States Ambassador if Kennedy is elected President. Stevenson suspects those who are pushing him for the UN job are trying to squeeze him out of the policy-making councils.

At a private breakfast before the convention, Kennedy told Drew and me that Stevenson deserves the first offer to serve as Secretary of State. . . .

Vice President Nixon's decision to ditch Secretary of Agriculture Benson reached Republican speech writers too late. They had already prepared farm speeches for the Republican "speech kit," defending Benson.

Here is what they suggested GOP congressional candidates should say about Benson: "I would like to puncture a popular myth which the Democrats have been peddling—that Secretary of Agriculture Benson is to blame for the farm problem. Let's remember this one important point: The Secretary of Agriculture is an administrator. He does not make the laws. He only enforces them. The Democratic-controlled Congress never has given the administration a farm law it asked for."

U-2 Triumph
The speech writers, perplexed over how to handle the U-2 incident, finally decided to claim it as a victory. Here is what they wrote: "The U-2 was an example of (The Eisenhower administration's) strategy. It showed to Russia and the world that we can—practically with impunity—penetrate Soviet defenses. The howls of Khrushchev over the capture of a U-2 plane in Russia point up the loss of prestige he suffered when the world learned we had completed some 200 flights over every part of the supposedly secure Soviet countryside."

On the problem of explaining away Soviet supremacy in big missiles, the GOP speech writers came up with this: "We are not being led blindly into spending even more on useless weapons capable of carrying warheads around the world three times just to prove we can develop greater thrust. But we are constantly developing, constantly improving, all weapons to assume a continued lead over the Soviets."

Vice President Nixon's staff is unhappy over Jim Shepley, the Time Magazine editor, who has taken a leave of absence to ghost ideas for Nixon. The first thing Shepley did was put his wife on the payroll. . . . Staff members also complain that he behaves as if he is Vice President instead of Nixon. . . . Secretary Fred Mueller has been filling vacancies at the Commerce Department with political hacks. . . . He ordered his personnel director to clear all jobs with the Republican National Committee.

Sen. Jack Kennedy hopes to slip away to the French Riviera before the campaign, for a short vacation and perhaps a visit with French President Charles de Gaulle. . . . Kennedy will use his Hollywood brother-in-law, movie star Peter Lawford, as a television consultant during the campaign.

The Public Road Bureau has refused to order the removal of Ku Klux Klan signs from Federal Highway 80 near Selma, Ala. Although the signs are authorized, the road authorities claim it is none of their business. . . . Gen. Nathan Twining, the Joint Chief's chairman, and retired Gen. Al Gruenther, the Red Cross chief, recently disagreed over congressional hearings. Twining complained that Congress abuses military witnesses and attempts to twist their testimony. Gruenther replied that congressional hearings are part of the American way.

"It is still," he said, "the best system on Earth." (Copyright 1960, By The Ball Syndicate)

Well-Kept Secret

By Leslie Gould

The merger of Capital Airlines into the financially strong United Air Lines proved one of Wall Street's best kept secrets. There were no leaks until the day of the announcement.

The merger agreement also is one of the fastest such arrangements—four weeks from the start of talks and six weeks to the announcement.

Considering the complications and interests involved—the British creditors, Capital's bond and stock holders and the CAB—the reaching of such a fast agreement is more than a record—it is a feat.

The alternative to the merger agreement is bankruptcy, which the British being the major creditor—being owed $34 million on the embattled airline's equipment—made clear.

Bankruptcy would wipe out the common stock equity and nothing would be left for the holders of Capital's $12 million subordinated bonds. Only because the merger deal was under active negotiation did the British permit Capital to pay the July 1 bond interest. A default might have brought on foreclosure, and this the British were reluctant to see, even though they are in the position of preferred creditor.

Before the merger can be carried out, stockholders must approve and 85 per cent of the bondholders must agree to taking United stock. Then the CAB must give its blessing.

The stockholders will vote sometime in October, and the CAB action will have to be forthcoming in a matter of months rather than years as in past such actions.

Wall Street opinion is that CAB will speed the action and the impression is that the Board will go along with the deal. All things considered it is a good deal.

One of the most favorable things about the deal is that through this merger a maximum number of Capital's 7,800 employees will be retained. Bankruptcy and liquidation of the airline would be rough. Contrary to most mergers, the major casualty will be executive.

For the stockholders—who are not organized—they will have a chance at later recovery, for they are getting stock in one of the nation's best managed airlines. They are only getting one share of United for each seven Capital shares, but in addition they are getting warrants for five years to buy 1 1/2 United shares at $40 for each Capital share held.

These rights at $30 presently for United shares are worth around $2 to $2.25 for each present Capital share.

The bondholders are getting 20 United shares for each $1,000 par value bond, which gives them the present market value for their bonds. If, as when United sells at $50, they will have par value for their bonds. United sold around that price in 1955.

While a large number paid par, many of the present holders bought under the present market. The bonds sold this year as low as 44.

If United continues its present dividend policy, the bondholders actually will be getting more than they are now receiving. Interest on the $1,000 bond is $42.50. United currently is paying 50 cents annually, and 6 per cent in stock, or $10 cash on 20 shares and 1.2 shares of stock. At 30 for United stock, the stock dividend is worth $36 on 20 shares, and this is taxed at capital gains rates. So, a bondholder on the exchange basis will be getting in total $46, in stock and cash, against $42.50 in cash now.

On the time table, first talks between William A. Patterson, head of United, and Thomas D. Neelands, who returned to Capital's board recently and took over as chairman to work the rescue, were on June 20. The first meeting of Patterson, Neelands and the representatives of Vickers Armstrongs, the British creditor, was on July 11. The agreement was signed July 19, but announcement was held up until July 28 to allow consultation with the CAB. This could not be arranged before July 28. There were no leaks before the press conference was called.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Definitely bound for big things in the world of finance is the tireless youth who spent an entire week going from store to store in midtown Manhattan changing a dollar bill into two half dollars, the half dollars into four quarters, the quarters into ten dimes, the ten dimes into twenty nickels, and the nickels into a hundred pennies.

Directly he had the hundred pennies, he reversed the process, ending up with a dollar bill again in his jeans. His boss ventured to inquire what on earth his object was.

"Some day," explained the crafty youth, "somebody is going to make a mistake — and it isn't going to be I."

A native of Los Vegas, making his first visit to Coney Island, was entranced with the merry-go-round, sat watching it intently for a full hour. Finally he was led over to the operator and remarked, "New York parents must be out of their minds, gambling away their children like that!"

Pirates Edge Giants, 1-0; St. Louis, Baltimore Lose

Mizell Hurls 5-Hit Shutout For 1-0 Win

Jones' Wild Throw Proves Downfall; Clemente Injured

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Vinegar Bend Mizell tossed his second consecutive shutout Friday night to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 1-0 victory over the faltering San Francisco Giants.

Mizell, who gave up but five hits, was effective in the clutch but was saved on several occasions by spectacular catches in the outfield. One of those catches cost the Pirates the services of Roberto Clemente.

Clemente was knocked unconscious, colliding with the rightfield wall at the 365-foot mark in the seventh inning while catching a towering fly off the bat of Willie Mays. He was assisted from the field.

Toothpick Sam Jones' wild throw to first in the eighth inning proved his downfall after being locked in a tight pitching duel with Mizell. Jones walked Bill Virdon to start the eighth. Dick Groat bunted and Jones threw wild over Jim Marshall's head at first while Groat collided with Don Blasingame on the play.

Felipe Alou came in from right field and grabbed the ball but Virdon beat the play at home for the only run of the game.

Clemente had to be assisted from the field. He later was found to have suffered a deep chin laceration and a cut of the left knee.

Pirate Physician Dr. Joseph Finegold said he did not believe Clemente's condition was serious but the rightfielder required five stitches and was hospitalized as a precautionary measure.

Other spectacular defense plays were turned in by Virdon. One was a catch of Alou's fly along the batting cage in deep center, in the sixth with one man aboard. The other was a throw to nail Andre Rodgers at third base in the eighth after Rodgers had doubled off the wall in left center and was trying to stretch the hit into a triple. It was the closest that a Giant baserunner got to third against Mizell all evening.

Jones gave up only six hits and struck out eight. His record now is 13-11. Mizell boosted his chart to 8-5.

A crowd of 33,304 shoved the Pirates home attendance for the season to 993,937 as they upped their season record to 60-40.

Reds Blank Cards, 3-0, With Purkey

Redbirds' Seven Game Win Skein Comes To An End

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Bob Purkey and Marshall Bridges combined for a 5-hit shutout as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Cardinals 3-0 Friday night and ended a seven game Redbird winning streak.

Purkey received credit for the victory after blanking St. Louis the first eight innings. His record is now 11-7.

When Cincinnati started the ninth with two hits Manager Fred Hutchinson removed Purkey for a pinch hitter and Bridges came on to shut out the Birds in their final turn at bat.

Curt Simmons, engaged in a scoreless duel until the sixth when the Cardinals defense fell apart and the Reds pushed across an unearned run.

With two out Gus Bell doubled and Wally Poff walked. Daryl Spencer booted Cliff Cook's simple grounder: leading the bases and Boyer committed an error on Gordon Coleman's roller to third and Bell scored.

The Reds scored again in the seventh after two outs. Eddie Kaso singled, stole second, and came home on Vada Pinson's double. Cincinnati picked up its final run in the ninth on Ed Bailey's single, a pinch hit double by Jerry Lynch, and Kaso's sacrifice fly.

Frostburg Little Moes Clinch Title In Pony League

The Frostburg Little Moes clinched the title in the Bi-State Pony League yesterday by turning back Lonaconing, 10-0, behind the one-hit pitching of Billy Diehl and Wayne Harper. The triumph was the 14th in a row for the defending champions who have four games left to play including a doubleheader today with Corrigville.

The second-place Frostburg Mounties have lost five games and cannot tie or beat out the unbeaten Little Moes.

Diehl picked up his eighth pitching triumph for the Little Moes, allowing only Keith Wilson's single in four innings of pitching. He struck out five. Wayne Harper hurled the final three innings without allowing a hit and fanned seven.

Jim Wilson smacked out a homer, but Cole had two hits. Vince Catania collected two singles. Jim Diehl had three hits including a triple and Tom Wilson hit three singles for the Moes.

At Westport Corrigville bowed to the host team, 4-3, when Glen Miller squeezed home what proved to be the winning run with a safe bunt in the fifth inning for Westport.

T. Crabtree had a double and three singles for Corrigville while Ervin Bennett had two singles. Don Raines and Jerry Ferguson each hit a double and Vernon Miller collected a double and single for Westport.

The Reds scored again in the seventh after two outs. Eddie Kaso singled, stole second, and came home on Vada Pinson's double. Cincinnati picked up its final run in the ninth on Ed Bailey's single, a pinch hit double by Jerry Lynch, and Kaso's sacrifice fly.

Salvation Army Upends Redmen In Rec League

The Salvation Army handed the Redmen their second loss of the campaign yesterday by turning back the National Division leaders in the Rec Softball League, 12-9, at Rolling Mill diamond.

The loss, coupled with The Bowler's 10-1 triumph over Post's Playground at Taylor Field, cut the Redmen's first place margin to 1 1/2 games over The Bowler.

In other Rec League games the American Division leaders, the unbeaten Sports Shoppe tossers, scored their 14th straight victory with a 22-1 larruping of the Fraternal Order of Police at East Side, and Bennett's Transfer defeated the DAV, 5-2, at Naval Reserve field.

Gene Horton weathered an eight-run rally in the second by the Redmen to post the victory for the Salvation Army. Billy Cook took the loss, although relieved by Whitey Slonaker. Fred Joyce paced the Army team at the plate with a triple and single and Bruce Meeks slammed a home run. Tom Wilson starred

Africa Program Is Presented At Moorefield

MOOREFIELD — The Moorefield Lions Club this week heard Robert Snyder, who recently returned from Africa as a representative of the International Cooperative Administration for Kenya, Tanganyika, Zanzibar and Uganda, all British protectorates.

Mr. Snyder returned from Africa in June after spending a year there and the previous seven years in Asia. He is a native of Lahmansville in Grant County and was with the Extension Department here.

Mr. Snyder also showed a half-hour movie after the regular club meeting at the Hotel McNeill Monday night, showing the animal life, the people and scenery in that section of Africa. He explained that although he worked in an area a fifth of the size of the United States it was only a small section of the "dark continent." The year he spent in Africa was in the section terrorized by the Mau Mau.

The ICA is a part of the Mutual Security Program attempting to help the 23 million natives in that portion of Africa. Mr. Snyder said the country was administered by the hundred thousand whites and that there were 300 thousand Asians in the area.

W. C. Harper reported the Lions Club barbecue which was held in conjunction with the Poultry Festival was successful and that over 800 chicken barbecue dinners were sold.

The directors of the club, meeting after the regular session, voted to buy the meals for the Lions Club Little League team on the trip to Washington August 27 when the youngsters will see Washington and Detroit play at Griffith stadium.

Guests of the club Monday night were Craig Miller, Richmond and Fred Larrick, Winchester.

Westernport Firemen Want New Station

Financing Aired At Council Session

WESTERNPORT — Three members of Potomac Fire Company 2, pointed out the need for a new fire house for their equipment and club room at the meeting of Mayor Ray L. Wilt and Town Council Wednesday evening.

The present quarters in the City Building need repairs and the company needs larger quarters. Paul Michael, chief of the company, said it is difficult to back into the fire house from Washington Street.

One of the problems that face the fire company and the city fathers is obtaining the ground in a well located site to build the structure. The firemen stated they do not have the money to buy the land and put up a new building, and that keeping up the old equipment and buying new equipment is about as much as they can do.

The cost of such a project, the sharing of cost, and conduct of a campaign for funds for the building were discussed.

Mayor Wilt stated that the town would soon have to pay for new sewers and could not undertake alone an expenditure of probably $50,000.

William Mayles and Danny Taylor also represented the fire company at the meeting.

Can't Condemn Buildings

The town does not have the authority to condemn property or to require buildings to be demolished or repaired except by action to abate public nuisance, according to an opinion received from Horace P. Whitworth Jr., town attorney.

Exceptions are for right of way for water or sewage. However, the town does regulate to some extent the types of further building through a valid building ordinance. Mr. Whitworth also stated.

Officials of fire companies have the right to inspect buildings and call conditions to the attention of the insurance commissioner. He may issue order for repairs or demolition of any building or structure by serving a written notice to the owner. The owner may appeal to Circuit Court.

The opinion was requested by the town to ascertain what could be done about a number of dilapidated buildings, which are considered unsightly and a fire hazard.

The town will ask the county health officer and fire marshal to inspect the buildings and if possible to condemn them. These officials inspected several other buildings recently.

Other Council Matters

Joseph Rinard asked that he be given an adequate water supply at his home on Wood Street. A larger line will be used.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kookan, Walnut Street, complained of surface water from the street above Spruce Street running upon their property. An inspection by the council will be made.

Notices have been sent to several people ordering them to cut weeds on their properties and if it is not carried out such persons will be prosecuted, the mayor stated.

Donald Stephens, Greene Street, wanted to know if his property is in the corporation. If it is, he would like to obtain water and sewerage.

Funeral Home after 2 p. m. today. Services will be conducted there tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. by Rev. A. B. Withers and Rev. Rankin Roach. Burial will be in Parsons Cemetery where ritualistic rites will be held by Pythagoras Lodge.

MRS. CHARLES CROSS
GREEN SPRING, W. Va. — Mrs. Carrie Melville Cross, 82, widow of Charles Cross, died yesterday in Hampshire Memorial Hospital, Romney.

Born at Points, she was a daughter of the late Robert and Julia (Wince) Watson. Mrs. Cross was a member of Wesley Chapel Methodist Church.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Robert Stewart, of here, and Mrs. Kenzel Sirbaugh, Capon Bridge; a son, Robert G. Cross, Slanesville; three grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. (EST) at Wesley Chapel Methodist Church by Rev. William De Shong. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

The body will be at the residence after 10 a. m. today and will be taken to the church at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

Critical In Eight AreasJ. Byron Dowling, senior sanitarian with the Allegany County Health Department, provided the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday with an outline of the sewage conditions in various areas.He listed the critical areas for sewage problems as Cresaptown, Narrows Park, Bowman's Addition, Ellerslie, Bedford Road,
Winchester Road, Potomac Park and Grahamtown.Dowling said there are 100 instances of sewage where has been seeping onto county and state highways and these occurrences will have to be eliminated.The outline showed the amount of sewage in the various areas which is discharged daily as 450,000 gallons. Dowling said there will be no building permits issued in the critical areas unless the regulations are met and a percolation test of the soil taken to determine the suitability of the ground where septic tanks are to be installed.The situation on West Street and Asbury Avenue in LaVale was described by Dowling to the board. He said there are 21 of 26 homes in the area which are in violation of the sewage regulations.51—Vacuum Cleaners

Kelly Workers Act On Wage Offer Tonight

Local 26 May Begin Strike Vote

Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, will hold a special meeting today at 7:30 p. m. to vote on wage issues, according to Alva C. Lewis, president.

The meeting will be held in the union hall at 152 North Mechanic Street and will follow a meeting of the local's executive board at 7 p. m.

Mr. Lewis said the meeting was called to allow the membership to accept or reject a wage proposal made by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

The Kelly proposal was made as the company and union resumed wage negotiations here Wednesday after learning details of a wage agreement reached between the URWA and the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

Details of that agreement will be presented by the Local 26 wage negotiating committee at tonight's meeting.

The union negotiators, a union spokesman said, wants to know whether members are satisfied with the Kelly offer or wish them to continue negotiations.

The union said it is likely that a strike vote will be started at the meeting if the wage plan is turned down.

Such a vote does not call a strike but empowers the negotiating committee to do so in case an agreement cannot be reached.

Local 26 opened negotiations with Kelly last month but recessed the talks pending wage negotiations between the URWA and major rubber companies.

The Goodyear settlement, according to a United Press International dispatch, included a 9 1/2-cent general wage increase and adjustments for skilled trade workers.

Two Men Held In Theft Of Car Equipment

Two local men were arrested here yesterday by city police in connection with the theft of automobile equipment.

Capt. James E. Van identified the men as James H. Linn, 477, Goethe Street, and Bruce H. Smith, 808 Shades Lane, and said they will be charged in Trial Magistrates Court Monday with tampering with motor vehicles.

He said the men went to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company parking lot on or about July 28 and took a battery and generator from the car of William Barr, Ridgeley.

On or about the same time, he said, Smith went to an alley near the Powers Sunoco station on Henderson Avenue and took four new Kelly tires.

They were arrested over last night by Sgt. E. Gordon Hite, Officers Charles Snider, Frank Bohn and Donald Boggs and Capt. Van and were held for investigation in the theft of a voltage regulator and oil cap missing from the car of Donald Boyer, 461 Goethe Street, and a voltage regulator from the car of Harold Cookerly, Creek Road.

Capt. Van said the men admitted the thefts after questioning. He said the voltage regulator and oil cap were recovered near West Side Playground.

The battery, he said, was in the car being driven by Smith, the generator was found in the garage at Smith's home and the four tires taken from the gas station were on Smith's car.

Legislators Will Resume Hospital Probe

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sen. John Talbot North (D-Talbot), chairman of a Maryland legislative committee, said Friday his group will reopen an investigation of alleged abuses of state hospital facilities.

North's announcement was the latest development following the disclosure that many Maryland doctors feel Blue Cross subscribers are abusing hospital facilities. The senator was chairman of a committee that investigated hospital operating costs last year.

The legislative committee is the second official group to announce investigation plans for the hospital situation. State Insurance Commissioner F. Douglass Sears said Thursday that his department is planning to question medical, hospital and health insurance representatives.

The case came to a head Wednesday at a hearing before the commissioner, at which Blue Cross requested a raise in rates by as much as 33.4 per cent. Blue Cross spokesmen said their company has been losing money in Maryland at such a rate that there is danger of not being able to cover commitments.

Dentist Breaks Time Record For Soaring

Poling Stays Aloft Nearly Six Hours

Dr. Robert K. Poling, local dentist, yesterday afternoon shattered the West Virginia state endurance record for soaring when he remained aloft nearly six hours in his Leister-Kaufman sailplane during the opening day's activities of the third annual Mid-Atlantic States Soaring Meet being held here this weekend.

He went aloft at 2:41 p. m. and alighted at the municipal airport at Wiley Ford at 8:31 p. m. During his flight over the Knobley Mountain and Fairgo area his altitude ranged from 1,500 feet to 3,800 feet.

A large crowd was on hand to greet him when the sailplane alighted at the airport. He now has two requirements for the Silver C award — altitude and endurance.

Second place winner yesterday in the endurance competition was Jack Curtis, Fredericksburg, Va., who remained aloft four hours, 56 minutes in a 1-26 Schweizer. Del Miller of Millersburg, Pa., remained aloft four hours, 11 minutes in a 1-23 Schweizer and took third place honors.

In the spot landing competition yesterday Phil Robinson of Bethesda in a 2-22 Schweizer came to a stop just 11 inches shy of the marker on the runway. The pilots are required to alight between markers set about 200 feet apart.

Del Miller managed to stop within 12 inches of the last marker and took second place honors. The third place winner was Burton Elliott of Greencastle, Pa., who brought a 2-22 Schweizer to a stop two feet four inches from the marker. Sixteen entries were in the two contests yesterday.

A Columbus, Ohio, pilot, Wiley Marsh, checked in yesterday with a BG-7 Brigleb. Del Miller also checked in during the day and competed in the endurance and spot landing competition.

Local pilots, Richard Aistadt, Richard Roberts and William C. Holbrook and George Nash, airport manager, are hosts to the soaring meet.

Among other contestants are Col. John Smith, of McLean, Va. in a 1-26 Schweizer; Raymond Shamblin, Charleston, W. Va., 1-19 Schweizer; Mario Piccagli in a flatfoot Leister and Nelson McCloud in a Pratt-Reed.

The sailplanes were towed aloft yesterday by Gene Wilburn, Chevy Chase, who piloted a Piper Super Cruiser of the Westminster Soaring Group, and Jack Wagner of Ridgeley, who piloted the 135-horsepower Piper Super Cub owned by Mr. Holbrook.

Today's competition, slated to get underway about noon, will include either cross-country triangular course or pilot's selected goal and return, depending on the weather.

Spot landing and endurance will be on the program today and tomorrow. Again today an attempt will be made to break the endurance records for Maryland and West Virginia.

LaVale Man Seeks Grading Of Road

W. M. Sisler of LaVale yesterday appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and requested the grading of a section of road between the Alexander Better Kitchen property and his property.

The matter was referred to Harry T. Skelly, supervisor of roads in the county.

In another matter, Sheriff Paul Haberlein requested the purchase of a refrigerator for the county jail. No action was taken by the board members.

The sheriff also complained about some of the windows in the jail and said if they were not taken care of by Tuesday he would take care of them.

Commissioner John T. Mason said attempts have been made to get the work done.

36,050 County Residents Signed To Vote

July Increase Is 108 Voters

Allegany County moved into August with 36,050 registered voters amid signs that a good many more will be added before the September 26 registration deadline before the November 8 general election.

The occurrence of both national political conventions during July is believed to have helped stimulate registration to the extent that the county made a net gain of 108 new voters during the month.

New registrants during July totaled 162, 87 Republicans, 73 Democrats and two who declined to make a political choice. However, the names of 40 voters who died were removed from the books. Among them were 21 Democrats and 19 Republicans. Names of 12 other voters were removed from the books at their own request so they could register elsewhere. They included nine Democrats and three Republicans.

Committed Crimes

Two other registrants were removed because of the commission of an infamous crime. One was registered Democratic and the other Republican. Democrats made a gain on the changes in political affiliation. Eight switched from Republican to Democrat, one from independent to Democrat, one from independent to Republican and one from Democrat to Republican.

Thirty-seven other voters transferred from one election district or precinct to another and six changed their names or addresses only.

John R. Kelly, Democratic registrar and chief clerk of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, who announced the voter figures, expects August to be a much busier month than was July. Already, in the first four days of August, 48 new registrants have been signed up at the board's office in the Court House basement. That's an average of 12 per day.

The number of registered voters as of August 1 included 20,275 Republicans, 10,179 men, 10,996 women; 15,528 Democrats, 7,999 men and 7,529 women; 237 independents, 165 men and 72 women; eight Socialists, six men and two women, and two members of other parties, one man and one woman.

September 26 Deadline

Allegany County's registrants between now and September 26 will come from three groups. First, there are those who have failed to vote since the 1954 general election. Their names have been removed for failure to vote in the past five years. Then there are newcomers. Those who have come into Maryland from another state must have lived here at least one year on or before November 8 to be eligible to register.

Marylanders who have moved here from outside the Sixth Congressional District must have lived here six months as of November 8. Those coming here from Garrett, Washington, Frederick or Montgomery counties may register immediately upon their arrival in this county.

Finally, the last group of new registrants will come from those who will have reached their 21st birthday on or before November 8.

The Board of Election Supervisors' office in the Court House basement is open from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1 until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday of each week.

Beginning September 6 and continuing until the September 26 registration deadline, deputy registrars will visit most of the smaller communities around the county for registration. In addition the office in the Court House will be open from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays, September 10 and 17, and from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. on Saturday, September 24.
